In Memoriam:-

GOWIN: In sad and loving memory of our father and husband, Henry Harrison Gowin, who passed away June 11, 1948.

He did no one a last farewell,
He said goodbye to none.
His loving heart had ceased to beat,
Before anyone knew it, he was gone.
He did not fail to do his best,
His heart was true and tender.
He worked hard for those he left,
And will always be remembered.
Gone is the face of the one we loved dear.
Silent in the voice we love to hear.
Too far away for sight or speech,
But not too far through our hearts to reach, and we pray
That we meet you over the other shore

'Blond Mandans' Contribute To Anthropology Problems

The first white men to reach the headwaters of the Missouri River early in the eighteenth century reported a "white nation"—Indians who reputedly had fair skins, blond or brown hair, long beards, and a civilization with many European likenesses. There where the Mandans, a few of whom still persist, although the tribe was nearly eliminated by a smallpox epidemic more than a century ago.

Although the early reports were doubtless greatly exaggerated in transmission from mouth to mouth to the eastern seaboard, there was enough fact to give them some substance, and the "blond Mandans" have constituted one of the puzzles of American anthropology. It was held at first that they were descendants from Indians and members of the legendary expedition of the Welsh prince Madoc in the twelfth century. More recently there have been speculations to the effect that they resulted from admixture into the tribe of survivors of the fourteenth-century Scandinavian expedition of Paul Knutson, which apparently came to grief in northern Minnesota.

Unfortunately, all early eyewitness reports of the blond Mandans apparently are exaggerated. Travelers who visited the tribe in the early nineteenth century also reported exceptionally light Indians; but by this time the phenomenon could be attributed in part to admixture with white trappers and traders who had been in contact with the Mandans for nearly a century.

But the earlier reports remain a challenge. The evidence has just been summed up by Dr. Marshall T. Newman, Smithsonian Institution anthropologist, in the Southwestern Journal of Anthropology. There is a very high improbability, he points out, in the thesis that the supposed blondness was derived either from Madoc's or Knutson's men. In pre-Columbian times the Mandan tribe apparently contained 8,000-15,000 persons. The genes for blondness of a few white men would have been smothered in a short time. And so, the question of the "Blond Mandans" has yet to be satisfactorily answered.

Carburetor Gum Cleaner

Carburetor gum—a prime cause of slow starts, poor pickup and high gas consumption—can be removed without the necessity of pulling the carburetor with a new tool, called "Gumouter", and a solvent, "Gum-out," which injects the cleaner directly into the carburetor. The cleaning job is said to take only 20 minutes and to reduce sharply the cost of such maintenance.

Home Agent's Notes

By Mrs. B. G. Anderson

Every homemaker wants floors that are attractive and easy to keep. The kind of finish needed may differ according to where and how you live. A floor is not satisfactory unless it wears well, does not show dust easily, and is easy to clean.

According to studies made on durability of floor finishes, a floor properly finished with floor seal would withstand the wear and tear of dust and grit. Its chief advantages are that it penetrates into the wood and that paths of travel can be repaired without having to remove all the old finish—as must be done when varnish or shellac have been used. There are a number of different seals on the market. Each carries its own directions. Read the directions and be sure that you follow them carefully. The flood seal finish is well suited to the needs of those who wish to pay the minimum attention to floor maintenance except at fall and spring cleaning time; and to those who do not like the appearance of shiny floors.

Floor seals are also replacing paint on wood work in many homes. This also requires less care and attention than painted woodwork. Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Morris, who have recently moved into their new home finished the woodwork down stairs, except for kitchen, with floor seal. Mrs. Morris says it's so easy to keep and she likes it very much.

Mrs. Frank Carr has recently added built-in cabinets and paneling of knotty pine. She finished with floor seal and likes it very much. Floor seal is also being used to replace old type oil finish when refinishing furniture, and with several coats of wax this makes a lovely finish.

If you are planning to refinish floors or adding new floors—why not try floor seal and see for yourself what a difference it makes in appearance as well as upkeep.

Eliminating Ants

Thallium sulfate is a good poison to eliminate ants. It is sold in small tin boxes which are placed where the ants can reach them. A hole is punched in the box to expose the bait. It should be placed out of reach of domestic animals and children. A 5 per cent DDT spray or a 5 per cent or 10 per cent DDT powder applied to window sills or other places over which ants travel, is effective. The insecticide chlordane, in a 5 per cent powder form, also makes a good barrier. Usually an ant nest outdoors may be destroyed by mixing a 10 per cent DDT powder in the top inch of soil over the nest.

Learning to Play Musical Instrument by Reading Music

Parents whose child is having a hard time learning to play the piano or violin ought to realize just what the trouble is. The youngster is trying to read music, which means picking up whole groups of notes at a glance, in the same way that one picks up groups of letters at a glance when reading a book. So far he can only spell out the music note by note, so it doesn't make sense to him.

There is a meaning behind the musical notes, just as there is behind the printed letters that form words. Reading in either medium consists in seeing through these symbols without being conscious of them, and grasping their meaning. The meaning of music is not merely its emotional or artistic content but its structure—that is, chords, sequences, modulations, melodic patterns, the movement of the melody up and down by definite, recognized intervals.

Expansion of U. S. bases is being planned.

News Around Town

By Mrs. Calvin Robinson

How many of you agree with Ted Lewis, who says the only thing worse than a wife who can cook and won't, is one who can't and does? (Earl Wilson, Post-Hall Syndicate).

Sgt. Alfred C. Phillips, of San Antonio, Texas is spending a leave here with his wife.

Sam Ferguson, III and Harry Gordon left Tuesday for training in the U. S. Navy, having volunteered for service.

Congratulations are in order for some of our girls and boys who graduate from college: Miss Bolling Conner, William and Mary; W. W. Flood, Jr., Garland Garrett, Dick Carter and Russell Henderson Moore of V. P. I.; Sgt. Thomas A. Smith, U. of Va.; Miss Joyce Wingfield, Radford; Miss Florence McFadden, Miss Hill; Dr. Thomas Jennings, at Medical College of Va., and others.

Don't forget that Tuesday, June 12th, is town election day. Be sure and cast your vote.

Don't tell that a certain lady had to miss school several days this week due to a sunburn—I told you so, Ann—but guess it was worth it.

Friends will be interested to hear that Dr. Carl A. Collins, Jr., a reserve officer, has been called back to the Army as Chaplain.

If you missed hearing Crawford Davidson over WWOD Tuesday night, may I suggest that you tune in WWOD Friday at 12:30 for the Appomattox newscast. I understand a recording was made. I heard Crawford Tuesday night, and he was very good. Got a two-base hit at the game, too. But for the rain on Monday night several hundred Appomattox fans would have met at the City Stadium for Crawford Davidson night.

I would like to congratulate Mrs. Havilah Babcock on her promotion to assistant principal of the Columbia, S. C. High School.

Lieut. Governor L. Preston Collins of Marion spent several days this week with Congressman and Mrs. W. M. Abbitt. I hear tell they enjoyed a fine coon dinner Monday evening.

In visiting around town I have seen some mighty fine looking gardens—mentioning only a few: W. M. Abbitt, Mrs. L. F. Smith, Joe LeGrand, G. L. Doss, H. G. Johnson, C. W. Smith.—I hear tell the Doss' will have string beans from their garden for the week-end. Hi-ya - neighbor! Don't forget me!

I hope all of you got to see the A. H. S. Seniors receive their diplomas last evening. They looked out of this world in their caps and gowns and did you know they could sing like that. There were tears in many of their eyes as they sang, "Alma Mater." Mrs. W. M. Morris and Miss Harriett Holley; you did a fine job training them. They sang like night'n-gales! Also would like to compliment Mrs. Louise Crawley, Mrs. Carrie Gilbert, class sponsors; and the other teachers. (Last, but not least, Father Darkleaf got them told about the challenges facing these young citizens). President: Jimmy Harris made a wonderful presiding officer, and Principal H. E. Kerr and Misses Helen Mae Poe and June Holt made excellent speeches. The program ran so true to form, we got out at 9:00—an even hour.

Home throughout—and easy to own—Small trade-in, easy terms. See it now.
